Found on a Bathroom Wall

Normally, you do not find anything worth remembering on a bathroom wall. Most of it is extremely filthy and not worth putting into your mind. Some things are funny but you do not tend to remember them. However, I came across something written on the wall in the Books-a-Million bathroom in Tupelo that I think is fairly profound. Admittedly, though, I am easily impressed. Here is what it said:

B - asic I - nstructions B - efore L - eaving E - arth

I believe this is the best thing that I have ever read on the bathroom wall. This is an extremely true acrostic. I have seen a lot of acrostics about the Bible but I do not believe I have ever seen this one.

This is exactly what the Bible is. It is the instruction manual on how to live life here on earth before we leave it. Life does not end here on earth. It is only the beginning. God loved us enough to give us a book that will guide us through the maze of life in order to come out at the right destination: heaven.

Jesus said, “If you love me, keep my commandments” (John 14:15). His commandments are found in His new testament. He goes on to say in that chapter, “If a man love me he will keep my words: and my Father will love him, and we will come unto him, and make our abode with him” (John 14:23). Only the Bible gives us the instructions we need to have the Father and the Son abide with us.

You and I are leaving this earth one day. All men are. If we want to end up at the right destination we must follow the basic instructions God left us in His word.

SOME OF MY FAVORITE PEOPLE

Who have been some of the favorite people in your life. We have friends that would fit this bill. But think further than friends and family. What about coaches? One of my favorite people in the world for a long time was a basketball coach from whom I learned a lot about life. What about teachers? I have great memories of several teachers in my lifetime. There are several that stick out in my mind from school. However, my favorite teachers are all teachers that taught me the Bible.

Sister Pope was the third grade teacher at the Knight Arnold Church of Christ for many years. I heard of her long before I ever set foot in her class. Sister Pope was world renowned, at least in our world, for the discipline in her classroom. I now know the need for discipline in a child's class. I learned a great deal from her. I remember being taught by Eric Eskew in our sixth grade class.

As a teenager, I was privileged to have many teachers. Some of them good and some not so good. I was challenged to learn in those classes. Most of what is the basis of my faith now comes from the lessons learned in those classes. Most of the basic knowledge I have of the stories that are in the Bible I learned in Bible School at Knight Arnold.

You might be reminiscing with me right now about teachers that you had growing up. Wonderful ladies and men who made the Bible come alive in your Bible classes. Men and women who taught you about God and His Word.

What if they had decided that they did not want to teach? What if they had said, "I am too old" or, "These kids are too bad"? Who would have taught you about Noah and the ark? Who would have told you about the young man David defeating the veteran soldier and giant Goliath?

Here is a better question: Who is going to teach your children or grandchildren here at West Walker about God's Word? Do you really want to leave it up to that person known as "Someone Else?" Would you not rather take the time to teach and become some young person's favorite person? There is no telling the good you could do in the life of a young person if you would simply teach his or her Bible class.

"For when for the time ye ought to be teachers..." (Hebrews 5:12).
